

Patient information

Macmillan Travel insurance and useful links

Gastroenterology Department

Macmillan is a great site to have a look at if you're thinking of travelling with a liver condition, it offers great advice and support- I will break some of it down for you in this leaflet.

Many people with Liver cancer can travel without any problems, for other people, cancer or its treatment may make it more difficult. How cancer affects your travels depends on different things. These include the type of cancer you have and how it is treated. It is important to get advice before you make any plans or book.

You may have questions you want to ask your cancer doctor or specialist nurse. Or you may talk to a GP, practice nurse or travel health professional about your plans. They can tell you whether travelling may be unsafe or explain how to prepare and what precautions to take. If you are still having cancer treatment, your healthcare team may be able to help you plan a safer trip. For example, it may be possible to change your treatment dates or arrange a break in your treatment.

Travel vaccines

You may need to get some vaccinations before your trip to prevent infections, depending on your cancer or treatment, you may not be able to have the vaccines, this would affect where you can travel.

Feedback

Your feedback is important to us and helps us influence care in the future.

Following your discharge from hospital or attendance at your outpatient appointment you will receive a text asking if you would recommend our service to others. Please take the time to text back, you will not be charged for the text and can opt out at any point. Your co-operation is greatly appreciated.
